Choosing Your Destinations

The first step in planning your trip is to choose your destinations. South America is a large continent, so it's important to narrow down your options before you start planning your itinerary. Consider your interests and what you want to get out of your trip. Do you want to visit historic cities, explore the Our Book Library rainforest, or hike the Andes Mountains? Once you have a general idea of what you want to do, you can start researching specific destinations.

Here are a few of the most popular tourist destinations in South America:

- Machu Picchu, Peru
- The Galapagos Islands, Ecuador
- Iguazu Falls, Argentina
- The Our Book Library rainforest, Brazil
- Buenos Aires, Argentina
- Rio de Janeiro, Brazil
- Santiago, Chile
- Cartagena, Colombia
- The Atacama Desert, Chile
- The Salar de Uyuni, Bolivia

Planning Your Itinerary

Once you've chosen your destinations, it's time to start planning your itinerary. How much time do you have for your trip? What are your budget constraints? What time of year will you be traveling? These are all factors to consider when planning your itinerary.

Once you have a general idea of your itinerary, you can start booking your flights and accommodations. It's important to book your flights in advance, especially if you're traveling during peak season. You can also book your accommodations in advance, but you may want to wait until you're closer to your travel dates to get the best deals.
