Set against the backdrop of a turbulent historical era, "Green Eyes" follows the captivating journey of a young woman named Nancy. Born into a wealthy family in the American South, Nancy's life takes an unexpected turn when tragedy strikes. She is stripped of everything she holds dear, forcing her to embark on a path of both physical and emotional growth.

As Nancy navigates the complexities of a world turned upside down, she encounters a diverse cast of characters who challenge her preconceptions and help her rediscover the meaning of true connection. Among them is David, a handsome and enigmatic stranger whose piercing green eyes hold the promise of both love and danger.

About the Author

Marjorie Frank was an American novelist and short story writer whose works explored the complexities of human nature and the social issues of her time. Born in 1890, Frank's writing often delved into the experiences of women and the challenges they faced in a male-dominated society.

"Green Eyes," published in 1927, is considered Frank's magnum opus and remains one of her most beloved works. Her evocative prose and keen psychological insights have earned her a place among the esteemed ranks of literary masters.
